

Andrew G. Morgan (Gil)

Gil Morgan is CEO of Vortex Control Technologies (VCT), a high tech, start-up aerospace engineering firm funded by Propeller Investments. Gil has more than 40 years of experience in the aerospace sector; serving as President & Chief Operating Officer of World Airways, Chief Operations Officer of Eos Airlines, and other various leadership positions in corporate planning, operations, engineering, finance, and corporate real estate at ValuJet, AirTran, Delta Air Lines and Southern Airways. Gil has served as an aviation consultant to Atlas Air and Allegiant Air. He was also a co-founder of the consulting firm Aviation Science & Commerce.

With a long history of giving back to the community Gil has served as a servant leader at the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics (AIAA), Rotary Club, The United Way, CEO Netweavers, Georgia State University Mentoring Program and the Woodward Academy Alumni Association. He served on the Vestry of St. Benedict's Episcopal Church. A graduate of the Georgia Institute of Technology with Highest Honors, Gil earned a Bachelor of Aerospace Engineering. He was named (in tie with another student) the most outstanding aerospace engineering undergraduate in the southeast by the Aerospace Engineering Honor Society, Sigma Gamma Tau; Student of the Year in Engineering by the Georgia Society of Professional Engineers and was inducted into Georgia Tech's Council of Outstanding Young Alumni and is a recipient of the AIAA National Distinguished Service Award. Gil received a Master of Business Administration from Georgia State University. Born in Miami, Florida, Gil currently lives in Metro Atlanta where he and his wife Susan raised three children.